The Rupali Group is a leading business group in Pakistan with diverse commercial interests ranging from manufacturing, exporting and indenting to banking and trade financing. The Rupali Group is also one of the largest producers of polyester filament yarn and a leader in the production of polyester staple fiber.

In 1971, the Group established Rupali Nylon (RNL) and obtained the sole-agency for Pakistan of the world-renowned polyester manufacturer “Toray”. After the instant success of Japan’s “Toray” polyester filament yarn, the Group acquired the agency for “Penfiber” polyester staple fiber. RNL also operates large oil terminal facilities at the Karachi Port and Port Qasim that cater primarily to MEG and petrochemical supplies.

The polyester filament yarn and polyester staple fiber industry was forecasted for rapid growth in the 1980s. With increasing demand for its products, the Rupali Group established Rupali Polyester Limited (RPL) to commence local manufacturing of polyester filament yarn. RPL was incorporated at Karachi in May 1980 as a Public Limited Company and is listed on the Pakistan Stock Exchange. It owns and operates composite facilities (Rupali, Rupafil, Spintex) to manufacture polyester staple fiber and polyester filament yarn. Today, the group boasts a combined polymerization capacity of over 220 tons per day, alongside DTY and PSF capacities of 120 tons per day and 70 per day respectively.

Rupali Group also has captive power generation capacity of over 20 MW across gas, coal, and furnace oil power plants. It has the privilege of being one of the pioneers in Pakistan for the manufacturing of staple fiber of the highest quality and since its inception, has been growing steadily through expansion and diversified operations.

As a national champion established back in 1983, TCS started off with just 25 shipments on its first day, there was no doubt that it would grow to become the leader in Pakistan's courier industry. Since then, TCS has moved from being a courier service provider to become a time-honoured, tested and proven name for delivering a wide range of logistics services. Not just that, but TCS is now on its way to becoming the logistics backbone of the country—much more than just a humble courier company.

While it is easy to take TCS for a technology-driven company, at the heart of the TCS phenomena of success are the people. Those, who do not forget that the customers are the only catalysts of change, and that the strategic insights about the business and the customers is the only true guide which makes it possible to achieve the high standards of service.

Our propensity to get the most out of modern technologies does not only help us to develop tailor-made products and services, it allows us to maintain industry-transforming standards which become the benchmarks that others aspire to achieve. We reaffirm our commitment to doing better for our customers everyday by providing exciting new possibilities and to continue to be your first choice. Today, tomorrow, always.
